WHAT TYPES OF PERSONAL INFORMATION DO YOU COLLECT AND HOW DO YOU USE IT?

For the purposes of this Privacy Policy, personal information is considered to be “any information that can be used to uniquely identify you or that can be reasonably linked, directly or indirectly, with you.” The specific pieces of personal information we collect about you depends on how you use our Website and what services you subscribe to. However, the general categories of personal information we collect about you are “Account Data” and “Usage Data,” which are more particularly described as follows:

Account Data

Account Data is information that we collect about you when you inquire about or subscribe to our products and services. This type of information typically includes name, email address, phone number, mailing address and payment information, and enables us to contact you for purposes such as discussing your interest in our products and services, creating an account for you to access our online services. Once your account has been created, additional information about you, such as account and communication preferences, may also be requested to enable you to configure and personalize your account. Whether you provide this additional information is up to you. You can choose what additional information you wish to provide, make changes to existing information, and to opt out of future communications at any time by updating your account preferences.

Usage Data

Usage Data is information that we collect about you regarding your use of our Website, and typically includes online identifiers such as IP addresses, MAC addresses and “cookie” data (see below for more information on cookies). Such Usage Data generally by itself cannot be used to identify or contact you. We may also collect information regarding the types of devices you are using to access the Website, including device type, browser type, operating system and language settings. In addition, we may collect information related to the Website pages you visit, including the date, time, and length of your page visit, and information about which internet services provider you use and how you use it.

Usage Data helps us to optimize the design and operation of our Website to best suit your needs and interests. It also helps us to diagnose, troubleshoot and fix any technical issues involving our Website.

We also collect Usage Data passively using “cookies.” A cookie is a small text file that is stored on your computer and makes it easy for you to move around a website without having to continually re-enter information such as your username, password, preferences, and so on. We use cookies to store our Website users’ preferences, record user-specific information including what pages they visit or access, customize the web page content based on users’ browser type, and to enhance your overall user experience. We may also decide to use cookies for advertising purposes. In such instances, a unique ad-serving cookie may be placed on your computer by us or one of our advertising partners. Other Usage Data may also be collected to inform, optimize and deliver targeted ads to you.
